LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE...BUILDING ON THE PAST

New Executive Director

George Kimberly

Changes are underway at your land trust! George Kimberly joined EIOILT earlier this year as Development Director. In September he will become Executive Director to replace Marian Brailsford, who will be stepping down at year end.

George grew up near Winston-Salem, NC, and has always enjoyed fishing, hunting and outdoor sports. After getting his Bachelor and Law degrees from Wake Forest University, he practiced law in NC for many years. In 2000, he and his wife, Karen, took a 3-year sabbatical managing a fly-fishing guest ranch in Montana. When they returned to Charleston, Karen took a position with Porter Gaud School and George went back to practicing law.

George recently decided to redirect his career to combine his legal skills with his passion for conservation. He has volunteered for various conservation organizations, and started a nonprofit to assist returning military veterans in their physical and emotional recovery via fly-fishing therapy. In 2009 he received certification in nonprofit management from Duke University.

During the last few months, George has proven to be a great asset to EIOILT. He welcomes ideas and suggestions from EIOILT members on what they would like to see accomplished. George said I am honored to have the opportunity to work with EIOILT members to preserve the farms, natural lands, and cultural heritage of this historic island. My goals are to serve our Board and membership by working to identify key conservation and community outreach initiatives that advance the Land Trust's mission, to build upon Edisto's standing as a model for community based conservation, and to strengthen EIOILT's role as a partner in the island's future. ■

Stepping into the Wings

Marian Brailsford will be stepping down after more than seven years as Executive Director, but will continue her work with EIOLT through year-end. She adds "I look forward to passing the leadership of the Land Trust on to my highly qualified successor. EIOLT's mission is very important to me, and I will support it for as long as I can be of service."

BoBo Lee, Past President EIOLT Board and current member of the Board had this to say, "There is no one person on earth who has put as much of her heart and soul into protecting Edisto Island as Marian Brailsford. She got the land trust focused and led EIOLT to become a force in the conservation effort in the Lowcountry. She is admired and respected by her peers and EIOLT is blessed to have had her at our helm. Generations to come will benefit from her dedication and vision of Edisto, and they will get to enjoy Edisto as we have . . . unspoiled and beautiful."

Lex Crawford, President EIOLT Board of Directors added, Marian has worked tirelessly during her term as Executive Director, and she has played a huge role in conserving our beloved island, which will result in an Edisto Island that will forever look much the same as today. She really put Edisto on the map and is leaving our organization on sound fi- nancial footing! We went from a handful of (protected properties) when she took over, to many easements with several thousand acres preserved. Her service to the Land Trust and Edisto was a love and passion that went way past a job.

Marian conveyed her gratitude to EIOLT members, supporters and fellow staff.

"You made it possible for me to serve in the most fulfilling work of my life – what a privilege to work with such wonderful people on so many worthy projects! Together, we have achieved something significant and unique... but we still have a ways to go on Edisto, and I know EIOLT can count on your on-going support. ■"

Congress Stalled on Tax Incentives Package

Conservation has slowed down in many parts of the country, and you can help. Background -- In 2006 Congress passed enhanced income tax incentives that made it financially feasible for many landowners to place conservation easements on family land. The incentives, which expired January 1:

- Raised the maximum deduction for a conservation easement donation from 30% of donor's adjusted gross income (AGI) in any year to 50%;
- Allowed qualified farmers and ranchers to deduct up to 100% of their AGI; and

- Increased the number of years for using the deductions from 6 to 16 years.

There is currently a bill in Congress to extend the higher tax incentives -- H.R. 1831 (House) and S. 812 (Senate), which has the support of a majority in the House and 42 senators. But the bill is stalled. You can help by calling the capitol switchboard at 202-224-3121 and asking your members of Congress to co-sponsor this bill. If you'd like more information visit www.landtrustalliance.org/policy/taxincentives/federal. ■

JOIN US AND HELP SAVE THE "PEARL" OF THE LOWCOUNTRY

Sunday, November 14 at 2:00 PM at the Crawford Family's Sand Creek Farms, 101 Highway 174, the 2010 Oyster Roast & Annual Meeting will be the biggest and best yet! This year we will honor a gentleman and an organization long associated with EIOLT's annual oyster roast:

Mr. William H. "Bill" Varn, President of Enterprise Bank and long-time EIOLT supporter.

For seven consecutive years, Enterprise Bank, has been the key sponsor of EIOLT's Oyster Roast/Annual Meeting. Since 2004, when this partnership began, both EIOLT and Enterprise Bank have grown significantly. Enterprise Bank was founded in 1920 by Bill Varn's father, and now, thanks to Bill's long-time visionary leadership, it has grown to twelve locations, including Edisto Island. He attributes the bank's success to its community involvement and personalized service. Enterprise Bank has demonstrated its commitment to the Edisto community and to protecting what makes Edisto special via its support of EIOLT. Another example of community involvement, in the little town of Smoaks (Colleton County) the bank was instrumental in attracting a manufacturing facility that has for the past 50 years provided jobs for local people. The partnership between Enterprise Bank and EIOLT proves that a focus on doing good work in a community can pay big dividends. ■

2010 Tomato Open Golf Tournament

When we think of tomatoes and greens we usually have a knife and fork in hand, not a golf club. On June 25 baskets of tomatoes garnished each tee box on the greens at the Plantation Golf Course for EIOLT's annual Tomato Open Golf Tournament, an annual fundraiser celebrating Edisto's rich farming history.

The tournament was a rousing success, with 60 players competing in teams and taking their chances at hole-in-one prizes which included a Scout boat and Honda Accord. After tournament play and catered lunch, there was a raffle prize drawing and a live auction for prizes that included exotic vacation trips and a helicopter tour of Edisto Island.

a "Million Dollar Shootout" where five golfers competed for a chance to hole a shot and win one million dollars. Although unsuccessful in their attempts to win the "green", in keeping with the celebratory spirit of the Tomato Open cheers of encouragement were thrown at the competitors, in lieu of "rotten tomatoes".

Arnie Caldwell attempting the Million Dollar Shot

Lead sponsors for this year's event were: Barr, Unger and McIntosh, LLC; Edisto Beach Pavilion; Edisto Real Estate Company; Piggly Wiggly Carolina Company; SeaRay Scout of Charleston, and Stokes Honda North. Twenty-one local businesses were hole sponsors, helping to make this year's Tomato Open the most successful yet. Proceeds from the Tomato Open go toward helping to preserve Edisto's historic farms and natural lands.

"Seeds" have already been planted for next year's Tomato Open, and details will follow as soon as the plans "ripen."

Tournament activities included a putting contest that ended with one golfer attempting a putt to win $5000.00, and

Scenic Byway Update

Have you noticed the new Edisto Island National Scenic Byway sign? It's nestled in wax myrtles on the side of the road as you approach the Dawhooer Bridge coming onto Edisto Island. After months of working on the design, EIPA (Edisto Island Preservation Alliance) has installed the gateway sign in its new home! Funds for the sign were donated by the Jane Edwards School, which was awarded a Palmetto State grant for the purpose of enhancing the scenic byway and encouraging the public to keep the corridor litter-free. Other news along the Edisto Island National Scenic Byway -- work begins soon on repairing the bridges over Sand Creek, Russell Creek, Store Creek, and EIOLT was recently awarded special recognition by the Governor's SC Scenic Highway Committee for its leadership in attaining the final designation for Highway 174. ■

Kids Learn to Love the Land

On Friday, May 14, wildlife biologist Carroll Belser and Keenan Adams, a biology professor at Clemson University, gave a hands-on presentation about reptiles to students at the Edisto Beach and Jane Edwards elementary schools.

Said Belser, "Our children are the future. Taking care of the natural world will soon be in their hands. It is essential that we expose them to nature and provide them with the knowledge and tools they will need to make good decisions concerning the island's wildlife and habitat." ■

Legacy Live Oak Dedication

On Sunday, May 16, the seventh annual Legacy Live Oak Dedication was held at Indigo Farms. The keynote speaker was Dr. Sid Gauthreaux, retired Clemson University professor and now full-time resident of Edisto and an EIOLT board member. Sid said, "Scientists now understand how critically important large-scale conservation is to the preservation of this coastal ecosystem and the survival of the diverse species that flourish here." He observed that EIOLT's greatest
